

Bloomington January the 19th Monday evening
Dear

Further I arrived at Bloomington Saturday ^{morning} at 6 o'clock and commenced making inquiries concerning Enon and soon learnt that he was at his own house down one mile from the city.
The idea that I heard about Bloomington and its climate before I started from home was that my overcoat would not be needed after I got here but I find it very comfortable indeed.
I walked down as soon as possible to Enon's house opened the door and walked in there lay Enon on the bed perfectly sane and in his right mind. but a frightful picture he was to look at. he was insane for 5 or 6 days it required three men to take care of him. he commenced coming to himself three days before I got here he is now very weak and has some cough the children are at a neighbors chest by all means you need not Expect me home till Spring I have got a hard job on hand And i shall do the very best I can it was very important that some of our should be here if Enos gets Well he will come home with me children and all I think he will get well I Expect to go to Berlin for him in March He has some very good neighbours they have taken good care of him The doctor thinks he will recover

Tell Henry to take care of my business

I shall Write every 3 days for a spell there fore Excuse Any more at present yours

Eda Haines
